ALERT THE READER WHO YOU ARE QUOTING WITH A SHORT SIGNAL-PHRASE LEAD-IN AND COMMA.

Theater critic Rohan Preston observes, "Director Lou Bellamy has a way of looking so deeply into the theatergoer's soul that audience members often call out involuntarily to characters—responding to their queries and whims, offering advice and succor."

According to theater critic Rohan Preston, "Director Lou Bellamy has a way of looking so deeply into the theatergoer's soul that audience members often call out involuntarily to characters—responding to their queries and whims, offering advice and succor."

Although there are "procedural aspects related to the measurement of conditioned inhibition of fear potentiated startle," Engelmann argues that researchers should also be concerned with "the actual conditioning procedure that is used" during training (35).

INTEGRATE PART OF THE QUOTATION INTO YOUR COMPLETE SENTENCE.

Rohan Preston suggests that Bellamy is a skillful director because he "has a way of looking so deeply into the theatergoer's soul that audience members often call out involuntarily to characters."
